Firefox ESR 32-Bit Install

Regular Firefox versions released March 7, 2017 or later will no longer support the Java plugin required for CM/ECF.   The Firefox ESR 32-bit version found at the following URL will continue to work until 2018. https://www.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/organizations/all/   .

To install, click the link, and locate the 32-bit browser for your operating system and language. For example, the English (US) 32-bit version for Windows is shown here:
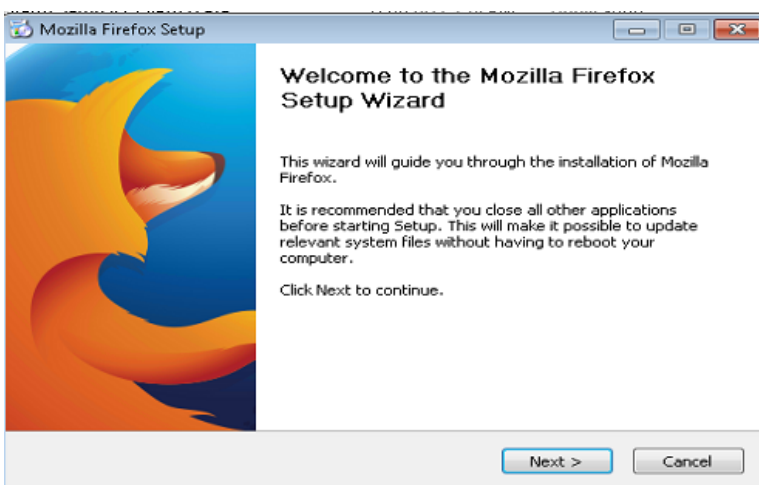

Click the Download link

By the time of your install, this may say 45.8 (or higher). Just make sure that "ESR" appears in the filename.
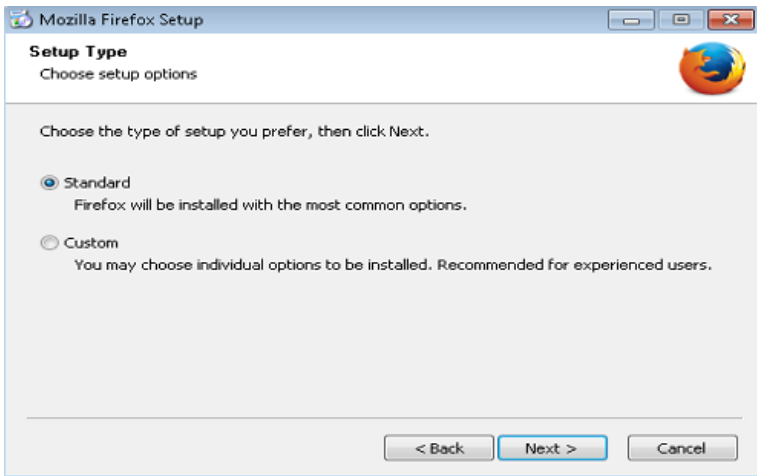

Click Save File and save to your PC (remember where you save it!).

Close the Firefox browser if it is open. Navigate to where you saved the file. Once you find it, you may be able to just double click the file and run the install or you may have to right-click and run as admin (this will depend on the level of security on your PC).
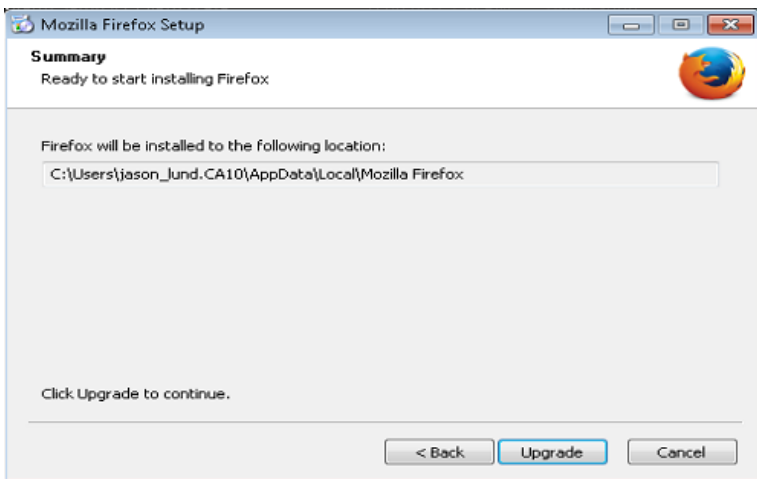

You should see this screen next if you are able to run the install:

Click Next.

Standard should be selected here. Click Next.

Click Upgrade.

A status of install screen will let you know the time of install. When the install is complete, you should see this screen:

Click Finish. You're now set to file with the court using FireFox.
